A POP OF COLOUR

There is nothing in this world that a dash of colour can't brighten up.

Summer is a time to add bright colours to your makeup routine. While many of us are comfortable embracing a neutral makeup look, a pop of bold colour can add life to your go-to makeup style. It's time to move away from nude makeup and try something more colourful. We're not talking '80s all-over neon—just a subtle touch of brightness can elevate your style and keep you on-trend this summer.

Ready to take on the trend? Here's how to add colour to your makeup look while ensuring it commands attention.

MASCARA: Replace your usual black or brown mascara with a vibrant colour like blue, purple, green, or even red. Use a contrasting colour of mascara against your eyeshadow to make it pop even more.

EYESHADOW: Experiment with bold colours, such as - bright blues, greens, purples, pinks, or oranges. Try a gradient or ombre effect using multiple shades of the same colour. You can also apply a pop of colour to the inner corners of your eyes for an unexpected twist on a basic smoky eye.

EYELINER: Swap your black liner for a coloured one, such as - turquoise, gold, or metallic shades. Try graphic liner designs or dual-toned liners to turn heads.

BLUSH: Colours are also great for experimenting with blushes. Use the sunset blush trend to create a stunning sunset-like effect that suits all Indian skin tones by adding the right amount of warmth to the complexion.

HIGHLIGHTER: Apply dual-chrome highlighters that reflect a hint of purple or rose gold undertones mixed with champagne hues of gold for a striking look.

Colour can be added to your regular makeup routine with vibrant mascaras, bold eyeshadows, and colourful eyeliners. If you want to take it up a notch, experiment with coloured brows, ombre lips, and unconventional highlighters. However, balance your look by emphasizing one feature while keeping the others subdued. The main idea is to have fun with colours and own the look with confidence.

COVER STORY

MAX OUT! NANCY TYAGI'S BOLDEST CANNES LOOKS

Our cover star, Nancy Tyagi's Cannes Film Festival debut marked the arrival of a new star with a captivating blend of talent and style.

COVER STORY

In the dazzling realm of cinema, where stars shine and legends rise, Nancy Tyagi has emerged as a captivating new talent. This year, she made her much-anticipated debut at the Cannes Film Festival, turning heads on the red carpet with her unique fashion sense and confident demeanour. A self-taught fashion designer and Delhi-based influencer, Nancy designed and stitched her flawless pink gown, drawing more praise than seasoned Cannes veterans. Her pastel masterpiece, crafted from over 1,000 meters of fabric and weighing more than 20 kilograms, was the result of a month-long labour of love. Her second outfit, a modern take on the sari, was equally dazzling.

Dressed in a series of stunning ensembles that highlighted her elegance and individuality, Nancy's Cannes looks were the talk of the festival. From ethereal gowns to bold statement pieces, her fashion choices perfectly reflected her dynamic personality and artistic spirit. In an exclusive conversation with Cannes debutant Nancy Tyagi, we delve into her style secrets and wardrobe favourites, exploring how she has solidified her role as a fashion icon.

When did you discover your love for fashion and design?

I developed a passion for fashion and design at a young age, influenced by my love for creating and experimenting with clothing. It all started with simple sewing projects and do-it-yourself experiments during my childhood, which gradually evolved as I got older. During the lockdown, I began creating videos and sharing my fashion journey, which helped me refine my skills and gain confidence as a designer. This journey has been a mix of self-discovery, learning from experiences, and constantly pushing boundaries to create unique and meaningful fashion pieces.

Describe your experience at Cannes and the success thereafter. How does it feel?

Attending Cannes was a surreal and exhilarating experience. Creating my own red carpet outfits and showcasing them at such a prestigious event was a dream come true. The overwhelmingly positive response and attention I received afterward significantly boosted my career, opening doors to new opportunities and collaborations. It is incredibly rewarding to see my hard work and creativity getting recognized on an international platform, and it has inspired me to continue pushing the boundaries of fashion and design.

What inspired your fashion choices?

My fashion choices are inspired by a mix of traditional and contemporary influences. I draw from cultural heritage, modern trends, and personal experiences.

Maximalist fashion is about bold, expressive looks. What's your take on this trend?

I love maximalist fashion because it allows for bold and expressive creativity. It's a trend that encourages individuality and lets you experiment with vibrant colours, patterns, and textures to make a statement with your style.

Can you share some tips for incorporating maximalism into everyday fashion?

To incorporate maximalism into your everyday fashion, you can start by adding bold accessories such as statement necklaces or colourful scarves. Mixing patterns, like pairing stripes with florals, can create a vibrant and trendy look. Layering different textures adds depth and interest, while incorporating bright, contrasting colours makes a bold fashion statement. Investing in standout pieces, such as a patterned coat or a vibrant handbag, can also instantly elevate your look.

COVER STORY

Do you have any favourite maximalist fashion pieces in your wardrobe?

One of my favourite maximalist pieces is a pair of vibrant, embellished boots which add a bold touch to any outfit. I also have a collection of statement jewellery pieces including oversized earrings and chunky bracelets, that add an instant wow factor.

How do you balance maximalist trends with more classic or minimalist pieces in your outfits?

Balancing maximalist trends with classic or minimalist pieces in my outfits involves creating contrast and harmony. For example, I style a bold, patterned skirt with a simple, solid-coloured blouse. Alternatively, I could wear a statement necklace with a sleek, monochromatic dress. Mixing these elements allows me to embrace maximalist flair while maintaining a sense of sophistication and balance in my overall look.

What are some of your summer wardrobe essentials?

Some of my summer wardrobe essentials include light and airy outfits with intricate handwork or embroidery, such as handworked fabrics. Denim skirts and shorts are versatile and comfortable for casual days, while basic tops provide a simple yet stylish option that pairs easily with various bottoms. Classy dresses offer elegance suitable for both casual and semi-formal occasions.

For footwear, I opt for stylish yet comfortable sandals that are perfect for warm weather. These essentials allow me to stay true to my style while adapting to the summer season's warmth and comfort.

How would you style yourself for a beach, city, and safari vacation?

For a beach vacation, I would opt for lightweight, airy, and breathable outfits that are versatile enough to wear while soaking up the sun on the shore and enjoying lunch in town. On a safari vacation, I would wear linen shirts, tank tops, an overshirt, a hat, sunglasses, and walking boots, along with a practical bag.

What's your go-to outfit for a casual day out and for a red carpet event?

For a casual day out, my go-to outfit includes oversized hoodies or sweatshirts paired with baggy pants or shorts, as well as chikankari kurtis with baggy pants. For red carpet events, I prefer long trail gowns adorned with intricate hand-embroidered work.

Gauri Tandon

Maximalist jewellery is one of my favourite trends. It's all about adding drama to your jewellery. Think supersized, chunky pieces that will be the star of your outfit. The only thing to keep in mind is to make sure there's some common factor between all the pieces you're wearing. It can either be the material, the colour, or the texture.

Jewellery's age-old allure meets modern reinvention through stacking. This trend isn't just a moment—it's THE moment in fashion and isn't about following strict rules, but creating a look that feels uniquely yours. Be it stacked bracelets, studs and hoops lining the ears or layered necklaces, one of the most appealing aspects of jewellery stacking is its versatility. "The key to creating a cool layer of jewellery is to first pick your statement piece and then build the stack around it. For example, for the wrist, pick a chunky cuff and then layer it up with chain bracelets or minimal bangles. You can follow the same rule for your neck, fingers, and ears," shares Gauri Tandon, Co-Founder, Isharya.

Whether you're dressing up for a formal event or going for a casual day out, layered jewellery can be adapted to suit any occasion. If you haven't tried jewellery stacking yet, we are here to help you layer with confidence.

NECKLACES

Layering necklaces is a fabulous way to add depth, style, and a touch of personal flair to your outfit. Play with length or opt for a mix of chunky and dainty pieces and incorporate some sparkle with pendants.

RINGS

If you don't wish to be too OTT, opt for ring stacking. One of the subtler ways to layer your jewellery is with rings. The key is to start with a select mix of rings that vary in style, thickness, texture, and design.

EARRINGS

Throw in some edginess to your look with a layered earring look. When it comes to stacking earrings, the best bet is hoops and studs. For a more striking look, you can even pick out a high-impact cuff and team it with smaller studs or hoops.

BRACELETS

Bracelet stacking ought to be one of the most popular of all, and rightly so! Who doesn't love a wrist with multiple sparkles and charm bracelets? Pair your favourite classics like Evil Eyes with contemporary styles, and even better use your timepiece as a part of the stack!

MORE IS MORE

The return of colour, dramatic silhouettes, and statement dressing.

While 2022-23 saw the burgeoning rise of quiet luxury, streetwear and minimalism, runways in 2024 offered a stark turn in affairs. Maximalism has taken over the catwalks; yes, fashion has become over the top again. Characterised by its boldness, extravagance, and unapologetic embrace of excess, maximalism represents a departure from the minimalist aesthetic that dominated the fashion scene for so long. Defining the trend, fashion designer duo Abu Jani Sandeep Khosla say, "Maximalism is much more than a mere trend. It is a well-established and longstanding design philosophy and aesthetic that champions and celebrates excess, bold colours, intricate patterns and utilises a profusion of embroideries and embellishments to create a rich and diverse layered creative expression." Far from being chaotic or haphazard, maximalist fashion is often carefully curated, with each piece carefully chosen for its ability to contribute to the overall outfit.

This season, maximalism is characterised by out-there silhouettes, embellished clothing, dramatic work, oodles of shimmer and metallic, and of course, graphic prints. Bold colours like cherry, are reappearing, while 3D embellished flowers and XXL bows are donning the facades of designer creations. Of course, designers have always had an unapologetic love for drama, but in 2024, it is getting extreme. While it celebrates experimentation for those who like to be sartorial and stand out from the crowd, others who wish to stay understated are urged to find new ways to play with the trend. "Maximalism demands one to embrace eclecticism and employ diverse elements to build a highly original and bold fashion expression," adds the duo. Here's your scoop on how to style the trend as advised by the couturiers who champion maximalism.

TREND TALK

Abu Jani & Sandeep Khosla
Fashion Designers

Styling Tips: How to embrace maximalism

1. Embrace the freedom to experiment and transcend mundane fashion rules, because maximalism celebrates bold and diverse elements.
2. Mix and match textures, fabrics, embroideries and patterns.
3. Layering is an instant way to create a maximalist chic look.
4. Ensure your eclectic style is flattering and not chaotic. Make sure your outfit complements your build and body.
5. Remember a trend is only to be followed if it makes you feel beautiful. Blindly adopting a look will always disappoint if it doesn't resonate with your style.

METALLICS
This season, metallic colours are taking the spotlight with glimmering gold, silver sheen, and dazzling bronze making a bold statement in the fashion world.

EMBELLISHMENTS
From pearlcore to sequins, and 3D designs, fashion enthusiasts are giving embellished clothing a big nod. Opt for a coordinate set or tone it down with embellished jeans.

SHEER
Sheer has been having a moment, but this season, it got a new spin with the addition of iridescent sequins. Hence tipping over to the maximalist side.

BOLD COLOURS
You can't really talk about maximalism without mentioning colour! Unlike minimalism, this trend is about wearing vibrant shades. As a quick guide, stick to the colour theory to find out which colours look best together. Opt to pair colours like yellow and purple, red and green, red and pink or yellow and green for a striking look.

PRINTS
Nothing else fully encapsulates the energy of maximalism like prints. From stripes to leopard, polka dot and floral, it's all about a kitsch aesthetic achieved by mixing and matching prints.

PRINT MANIA

Prints inject a playful and quirky vibe into any ensemble, and the stars are here to guide you through the art of mastering print-on-print styles.

Whether it's on the catwalks, the city streets, or endorsed by your favourite celebrities, bold patterns are commanding attention everywhere. In recent years, brands have increasingly incorporated prints into their designs. But we're not talking about your average polka dots and stripes, instead, expect to see full-blown graphic artworks adding a whimsical touch to garments. Yes, mixing prints can be a styling challenge, but it's one we can all do! When done correctly, this fashion trick is both easy and eye-catching. The key lies in finding balance; you can mix a big print with a smaller one, and if one print is bold, pair it with something subtle. Look for contrasting prints with similar colour schemes. Serving as a reminder of the bold fashion statement and ability to break the mundane monotony of a plain colour palette, we present to you some of our favourite celebrity looks. So, are you ready to mix prints like a true fashionista?

TREND TALK

David Abraham & Rakesh Thakore
Fashion Designers

When combining multiple prints in an outfit, it's important to carefully consider the balance and relationship between the different prints. It's helpful to have at least one unifying colour between the patterns. Proportion is also crucial, with respect to size. Contrasting large print patterns with small ones work better than combining equally sized patterns, which can look too busy.

OVERSIZED OBSESSION

Go big or go home! Tap into the biggest trend serving a side of comfort in style.

Oversized fashion is back! It has emerged as a dominant trend, blending comfort, functionality and bold aesthetics with an added layer of elevated style. Rooted in the rebellious ethos of streetwear, this trend prioritises loose, relaxed fits that offer a stark contrast to the tailored and body-hugging silhouettes of some classic, bygone aesthetics. This season, oversized garments like shirts, wide-leg trousers, shorts, and comfort-fit t-shirts are essential for anyone keen on staying ahead in the style game.

Layering oversized pieces creates a dynamic and visually engaging look. By playing with proportions and textures, you can add remarkable depth to your outfits. Adding these oversized picks to your wardrobe add a splash of versatility to your collection with their ability to morph into many well-styled looks. Whether you're aiming for a casual, laid-back vibe or a more sophisticated, put-together ensemble, oversized fashion has you covered. An oversized blazer can transition from a day at the office to an evening out with the addition of some statement accessories.

HOME DÉCOR

A BOLD MOVE

Here's how to champion maximalism in home décor with a 'more is always more' approach.

This year, 'less is more' is no longer the motto for home décor. Say goodbye to minimalist aesthetics and embrace the bold, vibrant, and eclectic world of maximalist interior design. Think lavish wallpapers, busy prints, rich fabrics, and a mix of furniture styles that tell a story. Florals meet geometrics, stripes and paisleys come together, and bright tones dance with joy. The key to mastering maximalism is curation and attention to detail. Instead of creating chaos, every piece needs to have a purpose and story, and it's only then that the most densely decorated space feels cohesive and intentional.

If you're still unsure about embracing this trend, our expert Aditi Murarka, Co-Founder of Nestasia, offers insightful tips on how to incorporate maximalism into your home. Don't forget to go bold, mix and match, and let your home reflect your personal style as you browse through our handpicked edit.

From straight Gin to floral infusions, Whisky sours and Tequila-based tipples, rediscover your favourite cocktails this season.

Cocktails are more than just drinks; they are embodiments of creativity and craftsmanship. Each sip tells a story, blending flavours and textures to create a symphony on your palate. While classics hold a special place in our hearts (and glasses), modern mixology has pushed the boundaries of what a cocktail can be. Today's bartenders are artists, experimenting with flavours, textures, and presentations that surprise and delight.

For those who cherish tradition, the crispness of a Mojito or the depth of an Old Fashioned offer both comfort and sophistication. Tequila lovers can enjoy the refreshing tang of a Margarita, while those looking for something new can explore floral-infused cocktails that blend botanical elegance with contemporary style. The Cosmopolitan Martini brings together Vodka, Triple Sec, Cranberry Juice, and Lime with a touch of urban chic, perfect for any occasion. Meanwhile, the Espresso Martini combines Vodka, coffee liqueur, and espresso for a sophisticated pick-me-up, and the French 75 mixes Gin, Champagne, lemon, and sugar for a bubbly celebration. Whether you're a connoisseur or a curious enthusiast, there's a cocktail waiting for you at DLF Malls, where every sip is an invitation to indulge in the art of mixology.
