FROM THE EDITOR

Dear Shoppers,

Winter in the capital has its own charm. The cold air, warm sunshine, and calm mornings create the perfect start to the festive season. As December arrives, the city begins to glow with Christmas decorations, holiday cheer, and the excitement of a new year. This issue brings together everything we love about the season: festive fashion, cosy beauty rituals, delicious winter treats, and inspiring ways to celebrate at home.

Gracing our cover is the stylish, young, and ever-popular Shanaya Kapoor, newly appointed as Steve Madden's first-ever brand ambassador in India. She set the tone for our holiday issue, dressed in a radiant red holiday-inspired blazer dress paired with ankle boots.

Our beauty edit opens with the fragrant world of winter. Shishir Mehta, Founder of Scentido Niche Perfumery, shares the season's must-have scents with rich notes of Black Pepper, Saffron, and Cardamom, which are warm, comforting, and perfect for chilly days. To help you keep your skin happy all season, we have rounded up soothing body oils and body butters that fight winter dryness with ease. And for the holidays? Makeup artist Pooja Lalwani Tamang shares simple, evergreen NYE and Christmas makeup looks—whether you are heading to a cosy Christmas brunch or dancing your way into 2026.

Fashion takes centre stage as we dive into holiday style. This is your moment to shine—literally. Think velvet, sequins, shimmer, and leather, all ready to take over your winter wardrobe. We also explore the biggest Fall/Winter 2025 trends, from chocolate brown and faux fur to pencil skirts, with expert insights from Shruti Mangla of Perona. For winter wardrobe inspiration, look to Bollywood's seasoned skiers and their effortless layering. From puffer jackets and trench coats to blazers and cosy cardigans, our guide ensures you stay warm without compromising style. And of course, no look is complete without statement accessories—gloves, beanies, muffs, and earmuffs that instantly elevate any outfit. Do not forget to explore this year's most exciting sneaker drops, stylish enough to compete with even the cosiest winter boots.

The festive spirit continues at home. Our home edit offers thoughtful, sustainable décor ideas for a conscious Christmas—simple, beautiful, and perfectly joyful. And when the temperature dips, we bring you the best ways to enjoy winter indoors: from bowls of hot ramen and mugs of cocoa to winter-special cocktails and comforting bites across the city.

So, are you ready for winter? Because at DLF Malls, we are truly #BeWintered.

Wishing you a Merry Christmas and a very Happy 2026.

FRAGRANCES THAT SMELL LIKE COMFORT

From spicy and woody to fruity notes, here is your guide to fragrances you cannot miss this winter.

A scent can mean many things, but it is always an expression," says Shishir Mehta, Founder of Scentido Niche Perfumery. And winter, is perhaps the best time to lean into that.

Winter brings a magical atmosphere, the soft chill in the air, cosy layers, and that unmistakable scent of warmth. As the weather cools, your fragrance wardrobe deserves a seasonal shift too.

Unlike summer scents, which are often fresh and airy, winter perfumes are meant to feel rich, enveloping, and sensual. Think deep, lingering notes of amber, vanilla, musk, and oud, paired with warm spices like cinnamon and clove or indulgent hints of cocoa, coffee, and caramel. "Fall–Winter 2025 highlights aromas that balance comfort with elegance through deep, warm notes," adds Mehta.

But a word of caution, cold weather can make lighter perfumes fade faster, so it is best to choose fragrances that last longer. Eau de Parfum (EDP) or Parfum are ideal options, as they have a higher oil content and remain on your skin for hours. With that in mind, we bring you the scents that truly capture the feeling of winter. From strong, smoky notes to soft and creamy blends, these perfumes will become your go-to picks for the season. ▲

Fail-proof winter fragrance notes: This season's spotlight is on spices. Tuberose, Bergamot, Grapefruit, Black Pepper, Saffron, and Cardamom are expected to stand out.

Common mistakes to avoid: Avoid choosing fragrances that are too light for cold weather, ignoring how a scent interacts with your skin chemistry, and improper application. Always test the scent on your skin and allow it time to develop before deciding if it is right for you.

Little Faces Deserves Their Own Care

Baby's skin doesn't need to be fixed, it needs to be protected.

Babies aren't born with "problematic skin". Their skin is doing exactly what it's meant to do, learning to handle the outside world and adjusting to the fresh, dry air. In the early months, a baby's skin barrier is immature: it's thinner, loses moisture faster, and reacts more quickly to a foreign environment. Dryness or redness is a sign that their skin needs love and extra care.

A baby's facial skin is around 30% thinner than body skin, making it all the more delicate. Besides, a baby's face handles a lot: drool, milk dribbles, food smudges, warm blankets, their own little hands, and lots of kisses that lead to dryness and irritation.

A lotion that works on arms and legs is too heavy for tiny cheeks. Their delicate facial skin needs a cream that doesn't clog pores or trigger sensitivity while offering lasting hydration, just like Baby Forest Khilta Mukhra Baby Face Cream. A cream that's specially made for babies' sensitive facial skin with upto 48 hours of lasting hydration.

Light and breathable, it is a blend of herbs and oils as mentioned in Ayurveda. It is USDA Certified 99% Bio-based, dermatologically tested, and hypoallergenic, making it safe and gentle for your baby's delicate skin.

Baby Forest, India's leading luxury Ayurveda-inspired baby care brand, brings out the best of nature by offering products made with all-natural ingredients, a kind of wholesome care that only a mother can provide.

BASK IN THE GLOW

Our pick of winter beauty essentials will leave your skin silky, soothed, and glowing all season.

The charm of winter often takes a hit with dry air that robs skin of its natural radiance, leaving behind a dull, tired texture. But picking the right beauty products can help you regain that perfect glow-up.

A simple lotion is not enough to keep the skin soft and supple during these colder months. For such times, you need something more indulgent rich—creamy body butters and aromatic deeply hydrating body oils that go beyond surface care to nourish deeply. Amid the winter chill keep an eye out, for products that are enriched with Hyaluronic Acid, Glycerin, Ceramides, Squalane, and Aloe Vera. These ingredients work to replenish moisture, strengthen the skin barrier, and leave behind a luminous, supple finish.

Instead of scheduling massages, make hydration an everyday luxury, a part of your daily grooming practice rather than an occasional indulgence. ▲

L'Occitane India

Hydration in winter is not merely about moisturising, it is about enveloping the skin in nourishment that strengthens and protects. Body oils play an essential role because these restore precious lipids, lock in moisture, and cocoon the skin in long-lasting comfort. At L'Occitane, our body oils are crafted with sensorial, luxurious textures that melt seamlessly into the skin, softening and shielding it from seasonal dryness while leaving no trace of heaviness. They impart a refined, luminous glow and a feeling of indulgent care—transforming winter hydration into a ritual of true luxury and well-being.

THE WINTER STEP-UP WITH SHANAYA

Shanaya Kapoor embodies the power of expressive winter fashion as she fronts Steve Madden's A/W'25 movement.

This year's winter arrives with a sense of drama and individuality, defined by textured layers, sculpted silhouettes, and footwear that speaks before you do. At the centre of this evolving scene stands Shanaya, the first-ever Indian brand ambassador for Steve Madden India.

This season, chunky-soled boots, refined knee-highs, metallic finishes, studded accents, and sleek heels dominate the conversation, and Shanaya shows how each trend can be worn with ease, authenticity, and a touch of personal flair. "Steve Madden has always been a go-to brand for me—it is where I find pieces that are both fashion-forward and incredibly versatile. I am honoured to be their first brand ambassador in India and excited to showcase the unique energy and quality of their footwear and handbags," she shares, capturing the essence of a partnership founded on creativity and assured style.

As winter unfolds, one trend rises above all: the season's shoes. Chunky, sleek, textured, and expressive, they come alive through Shanaya Kapoor, who remains the undeniable face of winter style. Her own aesthetic blends modern trends with a warm, relatable edge. She brings a sense of effortlessness to fashion, pairing knee-length boots with relaxed dresses, sleek heeled sandals with tailored coats, and metallic statement heels with a classic party dress. Her style mirrors the brand's mission to create statement-making pieces that feel both aspirational and entirely wearable. It is this harmony that makes her the perfect face for Steve Madden's Autumn/Winter'25 as well as Spring/Summer '26 campaigns.

Furthermore, the brand's newest campaign, Step Into Your Story, deepens this narrative—a bold celebration of individuality, rebellion, and unapologetic self-expression, positioning footwear and accessories as more than adornments, but as the very first step into becoming. So, what are you waiting for? Let this wintertime become your runway, where every eye-catching boot, stylish pump, and sleek sandal becomes a reflection of your sole story, inspired by Shanaya's bold new style. ▲

FRESH OFF THE SLOPES

Take ski season fashion inspiration from Bollywood's seasoned skiers.

Come December, winter arrives in full force, and with it, the start of ski season, creating the perfect moment to prepare for the slopes. A ski trip is not just about gliding down the mountains, it is also the moment to master winter layering with confident style.

While essentials like puffer jackets, cosy faux fur, ski gloves, sleek ski suits and, goggles are a given, a stylish wardrobe lifts the look. Think of a chic neck gaiter, a statement scarf, plus the right accessories that can turn your ski wardrobe into something spectacular.

This season, why not refresh your alpine wardrobe with a sartorial rush? Take inspiration from Alia Bhatt whose neon green jacket brings sharp energy to winter dressing, or choose the easy polish of Anushka Sharma whose orange jumpsuit adds warmth to a cold weather look. Ishaan Khattar keeps it cool in neutral winter layers with a laid-back edge, while Priyanka Chopra Jonas proves that effortless style can make a simple winter look, unforgettable. Here are the top Bollywood slopeside looks to inspire your next vacation. ▲

LUMINOUS GLOW

It is all about radiant, dewy skin that catches the light beautifully. Think softly sculpted cheekbones, a touch of shimmer on the inner corners of the eyes, and a gentle glow that feels effortless yet festive. Lips stay soft with nudes or pale pinks, letting your luminous skin take centre stage. Perfect for daytime gatherings or intimate dinners, this understated look exudes elegance and warmth.

WINGED DRAMA

Take the classic winged eyeliner up a notch for the holidays (and the parties). Metallic, glossy, or sequinned finishes add a bold, festive flair. Pair with full, fluttery lashes and a soft satin lip to balance the look. Ideal for Christmas, NYE parties or celebratory evenings, this makeup style is unapologetically glamorous, luxe, and perfect for anyone looking for ways to make a statement. ▲

THE RED-CARPET RED LIP

Nothing says celebration like a statement red lip. Keep the skin luminous and fresh, add a soft flush on the cheeks, and let the eyes stay minimal—a champagne shimmer or a subtle lash line works best. Classic, timeless, and effortlessly festive, this look brings red-carpet elegance with a holiday twist.

TREND TALK

Shruti Mangla
Co-founder and Creative Director, Perona

This Fall/Winter is about structure with fluidity and clean, architectural silhouettes. Classic tailoring makes a comeback with softened shoulders, relaxed layering, and distinctive collars. Fabrics stay lightweight but warm, like high twist wool, recycled cashmere, and fine corduroy. Mixed textures such as leather with wool and matte with sheen, add quiet depth.

Layering this year is about depth without bulk with soft draped trousers, gentle volume in coats and knits that stack without feeling heavy. Think trousers that drape softly at the hem, coats that embrace with quiet volume, and knitwears that layer up effortlessly. Colours stay calm and tonal with sand, charcoal, chalk, muted green, and deep burgundy layered over neutrals that build core aesthetic.

BOXY TROUSERS

This season, trousers take on a relaxed, effortlessly chic vibe. Forget the usual fitted tees or tank tops, baggy or oversized pants now pair best with statement scarves, big bows, and silky shirts for a look that is both laid-back and fashion-forward. ▲

BRING ON THE DRAMA

The season is all about textures and pieces that feel bold, tactile, and made-to-be seen.

Winter has a way of calling for materials that feel both expressive and refined, and this year velvet, sequins, and leather take centre stage. Velvet offers a richness that instantly elevates even the simplest silhouette, its softness catching the light with quiet elegance. Sequins, meanwhile, step in with a lighter touch, shimmer that catches the eye in pieces. And then, there is leather, steady and assured, grounding everything with clean lines and easy confidence. Worn together or apart, these textures give winter (read: year-end party) dressing a sense of warmth and intention, and here are the styles that made our edit this winter. ▲

Shantanu: At S&N by Shantnu Nikhil, winter style is all about embracing comfort without stepping away from the spotlight. With the launch of our first-ever merino and cashmere sweaters, we have focused on silhouettes that bring ease, warmth, and a sense of occasion to everyday dressing.

Nikhil: We have previously explored velvet through sweatshirts and cropped jackets, elevated with our signature crested details and a hint of sequin for added dimension. This season, we extend that design story with our merino and cashmere sweaters crafted for warmth, ease, and a distinctly stylish winter ahead. Velvet and shimmer continue to sit comfortably in this space, offering tonal interest and a refined contrast that complements the modern wardrobe without taking away from its everyday wearability.

POWER PUFFS

COATS AND PUFFER JACKETS
THAT MAKE AN ENTRANCE

This winter, make layering effortless, stylish, and fun!

Winter fashion is all about the art of layering, and the right pieces can make your look both warm and stylish. Think of a cosy turtleneck under a sleeveless sweater, topped with a long trench coat—it is an easy yet polished look that never goes out of style. Whether you are headed to work, a crisp collared shirt layered with a sweater and a puffer jacket could be the ideal mix of smart and snug.

As temperatures dip, puffers, parkas, and windcheaters become essential. They might not always be the most glamorous pieces, but they are essential for braving the chill. The good news? You can still make them stylish. Pair them with a scarf or muffler, add a beanie or even a woollen headband to introduce a pop of colour and texture.

A well-curated winter wardrobe begins with versatile neutrals such as black, beige, brown, and tan. Once your basics are in place, you can add brighter elements like a bold blazer, a patterned cardigan, or a soft gilet for a bit of fun and experimentation. For women, playing with proportions is key—pair a longline coat with a cropped sweater or balance a short puffer with a maxi skirt. Mix textures like wool with leather or knits with satin, and do not be afraid to cinch your waist with a belt. For men, the trick is to layer smartly—start with a shirt, add a middle layer such as a sweater or cardigan, and finish with a coat or puffer. Experiment with tonal dressing or contrast combinations, like a crisp white shirt under a dark knit, and complete the look with wool scarves or caps in rich winter hues.

Our handpicked guide covers everything from trench coats to puffer jackets, blazers, cardigans, and more! ▲

BEST FOOT FORWARD

Sneakers have become the ultimate everyday essential, and this season's drops prove the trend is here to stay.

Move over boots, the heart of winter dressing is all about sneakers that strike the perfect balance between comfort and style. What was once a niche streetwear choice has evolved into a global fashion phenomenon, finding its way into weddings, semi-formal offices, airport looks, and even red carpets.

From narrow silhouettes and minimal designs to chunky soles that make a bold statement, sneakers are having a design renaissance since the 2010s. The beauty of sneakers lies in versatility. Pair them with your power suit for a modern workday twist, style them with your ethnic outfit for a contemporary wedding look or throw them on with jeans for an effortless weekend vibe.

The newest drops at DLF Malls bring an exciting mix of styles—think vibrant colours, soft neutrals, and platform sneakers that add just the right amount of sparkle to your step. ▲

SEASON
ENHANCERS

Autumn-Winter's essentials that enrich every winter moment with a refined, expressive style.

As temperatures fall, winter shapes each moment with its own charm. While you prepare for that, your wardrobe calls for pieces that keep you warm, fashionable, and expressive. Fluffy earmuffs, tilted berets, and sleek gloves offer cosy character, while a bold belt defines your silhouette beneath layered looks with effortless flow. Each accessory adds intention, turning simple choices into expressions that feel genuinely authentic to your personal style. Tinted sunglasses augment the mood, shifting easily from bright afternoons to softened evening light, by bringing subtle drama and balance to every step, enhancing presence with elegance. Whether you lean towards playful details, classic options or understated accents, these additions help you experience winter with comfort, creativity, and confidence. Our winter style edit celebrates ensembles that elevate your look through the beauty of the season. ▲

TREND TALK

Aradhana Chaudhary
Founder, Twig Story

We have all grown up wishing each other a warm and joyful ‘Merry Christmas’—a celebration filled with love, laughter, and time spent with family. But today, people are becoming far more mindful about what truly make their celebrations meaningful. From the food they prepare to the serve ware they choose, every detail is now chosen with intention.

At Twig Story, we craft premium wooden serveware that brings not just colour and charm to your table, but also sustainability and purpose. This Christmas, do not just share sweets, cakes, and memories—serve something deeper. Serve legacy, craftsmanship, and a conscious choice that can be passed on. Celebrate with sustainability that feels beautiful, thoughtful, and lasting.

HOT CHOCOLATE CRAWL

Because nothing says winter quite like a steaming cup of chocolatey comfort.

When the air turns crisp and the city slips into its cosiest mood, nothing warms the soul quite like a cup of sweet, hot chocolate. It is comfort, nostalgia, and pure joy poured into a mug. This winter, we are tracing the sweetest trail across the city's favourite malls, where cocoa takes centre stage—from the rich, melt-in-your-mouth blends at Theo's to the thick, creamy indulgence at Paul. Each sip is a reminder that some traditions never fade; they just get smoother and richer. These cafés are a must-try for anyone looking to sip, and savour the season; one chocolatey cup at a time. ▲

SLURPING COMFORT

From aromatic broths to layered flavours, a warm serving of soupy noodles, of all kinds, feels just the right comfort in winters.

A steaming bowl of flavourful ramen, intense Khao Suey or comforting Pho can melt away winter's chill in a soothing way. The rich aroma, rising from a deep dish of layered flavours, and that first slurp of soft noodles can turn even the coldest day into a warm hug, ready to transport you to another zone. Each portion is a story of balance and care, where every ingredient finds its place in harmony. Soup noodles are not hurried; they demand you to sit still and savour. When the air turns cold and everything feels rushed, a bowl of comfort reminds you to pause and find warmth in simplicity. Here are our picks of places to visit and experience this unami for the soul. ▲

WARMTH IN EVERY SIP AND BITE

Warm pours and festive spreads that make every winter gathering feel thoughtful and full of joy.

This joyful season calls for gatherings that feel close and comforting, with good food and warm drinks bringing your loved ones to the same table. Friends settle in, soft light fills the room, and the pace eases into something unhurried. Cozy drinks set the mood, especially mulled wine, which carries soft spice and winter fragrance through the room. “Mulled wine is one of those classic festive drinks that brings comfort, warmth, and that little bit of celebration to a winter evening,” shares Nitin Tewari, also known as Mr.BarTrender. The best part? Mulled wine is never made just for one person. The rule is simple: make it in batches. It is meant to be shared with your people—friends, family, everyone around you.

And what better way to enjoy these cozy winter pours than with finger food that matches their depth? Charcuterie boards filled with seasonal cheese, winter fruits, jams, and dips invite sharing and spark easy conversation. Take a nibble, sip some soulful drink, and soak in the winter magic.▲

MULLED WINE (INDIA EDITION)

INGREDIENTS

- 1 bottle of red wine (750ml) – Something smooth and fruity
- 2 cinnamon sticks
- 4–5 cloves
- 1–2 star anise
- 1 small piece of fresh ginger (cut in 3–4 slices)
- Peel of 1 orange and 4–5 fresh orange slices
- 3–4 tbsp honey or jaggery (add sweetness as per taste)
- Optional: 30ml brandy or rum for extra warmth
- Optional Indian twist: 4–5 green cardamom pods (lightly crushed)

METHOD

- In a pot on low heat, add the wine, spices, orange peel, and slices.
- Add honey/jaggery and let it dissolve slowly.
- Warm gently for 15–20 minutes. Do not boil the wine—keep it low and slow.
- Add a splash of brandy/rum for more richness. (Optional)
- Turn off the heat, let it rest for 5 minutes, then strain into mugs.
- Garnish with an orange slice or a cinnamon stick.

SERVING TIP

Serve it warm, not hot—mulled wine should feel like a hug, not a burn.

TREND TALK

Nitin Tewari
Founder, BarTrender
Barkala & 30Sixty

“Mulled wine started off in Europe centuries ago, but today, it has a huge fan base in India as well. And honestly, it makes total sense—India is the land of spices, and mulled wine is literally all about beautiful spices coming together. It is basically red wine warmed gently with cinnamon, clove, star anise, and a bit of citrus. Simple, fragrant, and full of flavour. For me, mulled wine tastes like winter in a cup—served warm, smelling like a holiday, and just making you feel good.”
